Udemy To Harness Power of Cloud Technology Through Work With AWS

August 30, 2022

As an AWS Partner Network member, Udemy supports AWS adoption, innovation and outcomes in organizations

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30, 2022 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Udemy, a leading destination for learning and teaching online, today announced it has joined the AWS Partner Network (APN), a global community of partners that leverages AWS programs, expertise and resources to build, market and sell customer offerings.

Thousands of AWS customers can now easily discover and deploy next-gen learning solutions by Udemy Business in their organizations. This includes top Udemy Business AWS courses from several leading instructors, such as the AWS Certified Solutions Architect Associate Certification and Certified Cloud Practitioner by Stéphane Maarek, Cloud Practitioner 2022 by Zeal Vora, AWS Certified Security by Chandra Lingam, Certified Developer Associate by Ranga Karanam, and many others.

"Integration of the most popular content into AWS Marketplace creates more positive learning opportunities and outcomes for employees across a wide breadth of industries," said Greg Brown, president of Udemy Business.

Udemy joins more than 12,000 software vendors in AWS Marketplace to provide a curated software catalog that helps customers find innovative software and services needed to run and grow their business, with ease of procurement and deployment.

Additional benefits of this work include:

- Transactions completed through AWS Marketplace, allowing organizations to consolidate billing, streamline procurement processes, and negotiate custom contract terms.
- Udemy has joined the AWS Independent Software Vendor (ISV) Accelerate Program to help drive new business and accelerate sales cycles by connecting Udemy with the AWS Sales organization.
- Udemy has passed the AWS Foundational Technical Review (FTR), which evaluates solutions against a list of controls defined in a checklist based on AWS Well-Architected best practices.
